DR. PAUL HOUSTON, KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Executive Director Emeritus, American Association of School Administrators

Our keynote speaker for the symposium is Dr. Paul Houston, Executive Director of AASA from 1994 to 2008. Dr. Houston is one of the leading spokespersons for American public education as reflected by his extensive U.S. and international speaking engagements, published articles and media interviews. He will present powerful insights on educational leadership and the future of our schools—drawing from his past and future publications.

About ENI, Dr. Houston commented:

"We have to find a way to change how we 'do schooling'. We need to make school a place that kids want to go to. A place where their imagination is as rich at age 18 as it was at five. I like Evans Newton Incorporated (ENI) because their Target Teach® Five-Step Process gives schools the tools to start looking at education differently...personalizing learning to individuals in ways that make school a meaningful and engaging place."

ENI. A PROFILE.

Since 1973, Evans Newton Incorporated (ENI) has worked as a trusted partner for K-12 schools and districts, collaborating with education's leaders to create solutions for sustainable student success. ENI works with districts to implement a customized, research-based model for school improvement.

Target Teach® is ENI's proven model for school improvements and improved student achievement. Our trusted and adaptive systemic process is designed to improve school climate and instructional capacity. The program's components and our expertise in implementation, integrated professional development and coaching all combine to produce measurable increases in student achievement.
